

Chapter 4: Acts of Social Injustice

The next morning, Christopher, Maxelle and Iris were ready to go to work.

Christopher: Ok, Lisa. We're off to work; try not to eat too much.

Lisa: I won't; be careful out there.

Iris: We will. Bye, Lisa.

Christopher, along with Maxelle and Iris drove off to work. But before he could park his car, there were some women in the parking lot.

Christopher: What are you ladies doing here?

Woman: Get lost, sexist!

She tried to punch Christopher but he caught her hand.

Christopher: (feeling annoyed.) Hey! What the hell is your problem? I suggest you leave this place at once.

Women: Free her!

The women approached Christopher. Then the police arrived; Christopher, Maxelle and Iris wasted no time entering the restaurant.

Cedric: Hello, Christopher. (sees that Christopher was annoyed.) What's the matter?

Christopher: Where's Eugene?

Cedric: He's in his office. What? Is there - - - (Christopher walks to his office and past him.) Hey! Wait a minute! He's - - -

Christopher enters his office along with Cedric, Maxelle and Iris.

Eugene: What a surprise. I wasn't expecting you here.

Christopher: Why are you surprised? Do you have any idea why those SJWs are at your restaurant?

Eugene: They're just minding their own business; perhaps, you should do the same.

Maxelle: (sees that Christopher was getting mad.) Ok, Christopher. That's enough.

Christopher: If they try to hit me, I'm going to sue you for this.

Eugene: Sue yourself.

Christopher left without saying a word to Eugene. Jessie appears after Maxelle, Iris and Cedric left his office.

Eugene: What do you want?

Jessie: I think you should have the police safeguard this restaurant. Who knows what will happen if these women go too far.

Eugene: I know what I'm doing, Jessica. So why won't you just back me up!!

Jessica was getting annoyed with him and left his office.

Eugene: Damn it all.

Hours passed; all day the SJWs were driving away customers. So far, there were a total of 30 customers served at Rocky's Super Gourmet. The main reason why the SJWs were there simply because of the mistreatment of some of the female workers there. They even went too far with some of their protests by going topless – provoking Christopher, Cedric and the male police officers. Christopher also had to be detained by the police once to prevent retaliation. Christopher, Maxelle and Iris arrived at the apartment strip. Christopher was tired.

Christopher: I'm sorry for what happened today.

Iris: You have no reason to apologize; those women are crazy.

Lisa: What women?

Christopher: The SJWs.

Lisa: SJWs? What is that supposed to be?

Maxelle: It's an acronym for Social Justice Warriors.

Christopher: I really hate to be biased, but they are the most ruthless, backstabbing and outrageous group of women I ever set my eyes upon. Thank god that I didn't use my Raiken powers against them; it would have been ugly if I did.

Iris: Try not to worry about them too much, Chris. I'm sure the police will handle them.

Christopher: Yeah, that's easy for you to say.

Then, someone was knocking on his door. He sees that it was Rachael Loews, Joseph's sister and Wendy's sister-in-law. Christopher lets her in.

Christopher: Rachael, what a surprise! What are you doing here?

Rachael: I just came here to see how you're doing? Is that a problem?

Christopher: No. I just got through dealing with some unruly members of the SJWs.

Rachael: I see, but anyway, things are going to be a bit worse for you.

Christopher: What are you saying?

Rachael: Join us, Chris. You're having trust issues with Eugene.

Christopher: Are you crazy? I don't have trust issues with Eugene; it's just one thing after another with that guy. He has an unorthodox way of running his business, that's all.

Rachael: It seems like you do.

Christopher: I'm sorry, Rachael. I can't join your group; to be honest, I really hate women who operate above the law. Your organization's a perfect example of that.

Rachael: You do realize you're making a serious mistake not joining us.

Christopher: I'll take my chances; I suggest you get out of my apartment before I call the police on you and whoever drove you here.

Rachael leaves his apartment.

Lisa: That was harsh, Christopher.

Christopher: Don't blame you ladies for seeing that from me; I needed to stand my ground against people like that. (sees Rachael enter a Hummer Limousine.) She would have to drive in that big SUV.

Meanwhile in the Hummer Limousine, Rachael was riding alongside the leader of the Social Justice Warriors. Her name was Maureen Sanders.

Maureen: So how did it go? Did he accept our offer?

Rachael: He didn't. Anyway, I don't understand why you want him to join our group; he's a mean-spirited individual.

Maureen: I have my reasons. Besides, I've always wanted a guinea pig like him in our group.

Rachael: Guinea pig? He - - - nevermind.

Maureen: Other than that, I heard that my friends Bella Swann and Mary Halvertson were treated harshly by the owner of that restaurant. I think it's about time to start phase 1 of our operations, tomorrow.

Rachael: Alright. I sure hope you know what you're doing.

Hours passed, after Rachael left, Christopher and Lisa drove off to the Myles household to see if Catherine was there. They arrived and Avi sees them.

Avi: Wendy, we have visitors.

Wendy: What? This late?! Go on ahead and let them in, Avi.

Wendy sees that it was Christopher and Lisa.

Wendy: Hi.

Christopher: Hello, Wendy. Has Catherine made it home?

Wendy: She's running some late-night errands. What's wrong?

Christopher: It's about the Social Justice Warriors. I'm afraid that they are taking the "battle of the sexes" thing too far.

Wendy: And that's troubling you? Just let the police handle them.

Christopher: They're not doing their job. What do you want me to do? Let them walk all over us?

Wendy: I know how you feel, Christopher.

Christopher: Sure, you do.

Then Damien appears.

Damien: Well, if it isn't the wifebeater. What brings you here?

Christopher: I just came here to see Catherine, that's all. I have no business with you.

Damien: Oh, really? I saw you trying to attack some of those SJWs, today.

Christopher: They attacked me first; I was trying to defend myself from them.

Damien: Sure, you were.

Christopher was getting angry with Damien.

Avi: OK, Damien; that's enough.

Damien: I'll leave him be for this. You should feel lucky tonight.

Damien leaves the Myles household.

Christopher: I'm sorry for what happened; I guess I let my emotions get the best of me.

Wendy: It's alright, Christopher. Nobody's perfect; just try to control yourself tomorrow.

Christopher: Alright; let's go home, Lisa.

Lisa: Ok. Thank you for everything, Wendy.

Wendy: You're welcome; be careful out there.

Christopher and Lisa headed home. The next morning, Christopher, Maxelle and Iris went off to work. Once again, more members of the Social Justice Warriors appeared and thwarted customers from entering the restaurant. Christopher wanted to keep them from driving away these customers but he couldn't, due to the police officers protecting them. Hours upon hours, the SJWs drove the customers away and Eugene was doing nothing to stop them. At closing time, the SJWs left; the restaurant was able to get 20 customers in for today, but still, Christopher was getting annoyed with how Eugene handled the protesters.

Christopher: I can't believe this. This whole time, Eugene did nothing. What the hell's wrong with him?

Then, Sophie appears.

Sophie: What's wrong?

Christopher: What do you think? I can't believe Eugene welcomed those SJWs in open arms like this; it's already bad enough that we had a shortage of customers today. I know we have to do something to stop this. Somebody's going to get hurt, if this keeps up.

Sophie: You think so? I'm sure that the police can handle them.

Christopher: Sure, they can handle them. The male police officers are scaredy-cats; where's the female officers?

Sophie: Good question. I'm sure we'll have better luck, next time.

Christopher: Yeah, right. I'm sure they'll do the same thing again.

Then, Sophie sensed demonic energy nearby.

Christopher: Sophie, what is it? What's wrong?

Sophie: I'm sensing demonic energies nearby. There's two of them.

Christopher was able to track them and he and Sophie saw that they attacked their shift manager, Catherine Myles. Those two were affiliated with Ogra and their names were Sage and Thyme.

Thyme: Isn't this a surprise? We got humans invading our territory.

Christopher: This place isn't your territory to begin with. So tell me, are you two working with Ogra?

Sage: Why should you care? Are you a demon hunter?

Christopher: I am. If I were you two, I suggest you run away while you have the chance.

Thyme: You have some nerve; let's kill these idiots, Sage.

Christopher fought against Sage and Thyme while Sophie got Catherine to safety. But before Sage and Thyme could focus their attention on Sophie, Christopher's Raiken powers awoke – forcing Sage and Thyme to flee. Catherine passed out after seeing Christopher's Raiken powers.

Christopher: Is she alright, Sophie?

Sophie: I think so. She has a major bruise on her right ankle.

Christopher: Great. We need to take her to the hospital as soon as possible; I can tell Eugene's going to be pissed at us for this.

Sophie: I'll go on ahead and call Lisa for her help.

Christopher and Sophie took Catherine to the hospital to help her recover from her injury.